

ezBtc/MyATM/VCA Update – General IPOs Update
SEPTEMBER 24, 2016

MyATM

MyATM was received in good working order on Tuesday the 20th of September and it's spectacular. It's currently undergoing in house testing as well as having the backend setup and customised. Due to the design of MyATM and ease of installation we intend to deploy it in our Kingsgate Mall location this coming week. The boys at Bitxatm have been very helpful and I'm really impressed with the quality, design, and strength of the machine. It took a long time, but this is a beautiful ATM that works brilliantly.

Please see photos of MyATM on the following document. Canada and BTCPOP's first fully crowdfunded ATM is about to be released in to the wild.

VCA

Our General Bytes one-way ATM, intended for Kingsgate Mall is now likely going to be fitted inside a café at International Village in Vancouver, BC. This is pending final documentation. Due to the design of the café and this ATM not being attached to a stand installation at this location is considerably easier, more secure, safer, and easier to compete in a timely fashion.

VCA should be live this coming week as well.

EZBTC

There have been numerous documents on ezBtc, but to summarise we are almost ready to move to phase 2 where we run Canada's first 24/7 supported crypto-exchange. We are still wading through several hoops, but what we thought was going to be a 12 month, due to persistent networking appears to be now in the 4-8 week timeline for launch. We are very excited about this.

NOTE:

As mentioned before, there will be a one-time release of ezBtc shares on Pop at the discounted IPO price, we presently hold 63% of the offering on POP. Shares sales were ceased due to the undervaluation, but considering the present difficulties in the Canadian market, our expansion, and the support of the community over time we are offering this final release.

In addition to dividends, POP shareholders will have access to this investor page which will feature regular updates as releases of earnings/expenses, new projects and ATM reports.

If you'll reading this, you'll notice on your dashboard that you're a BTC Pop Investor user. Should you verify your account through KYC, and are a trusted member of the POP community we will shortly be offering discounted and preferential coin purchase and sale to those who have helped us get this far. At present we can't keep enough coin in stock already, but it's something that has always been on our mind during development. To include the community whom without their support couldn't have made this happen.

Finally, we will be offering a token dividend for all three IPO's to celebrate our launch of on October 1st, 2016. We hope to continue dividends as numbers start to come in from our ATM's and our monthly books are released for ezBtc.
